

Walker School to be site of Recreational Program

The Walker School, near Rotary Park, is to be the site of a Recreational Program starting in July, and ending August 8 for the young people of Wilmington.

It is an almost new program, designed to provide recreation for a large number of school youngsters, in the seventh and eighth grades, and in the high school classes.

Deep See Fishing, Soccer, two dances, two Red Sox games, La Crosse and two trips to the beach are parts of the program being offered.

Except for the Fourth of July, there will be special activities on every Wednesday and Friday, for all the young people.

There will be tennis lessons, for those who want them, at the High School tennis courts. Patty Griffen will be in charge.

There will be track and field in-

Soccer Speedball - a variation of the game of soccer will be featured in a co-ed softball league.

The Walker School is to be the headquarters of the Recreation Department summer programs. The cellar is to be arranged as a lounge area. The class rooms on the ground floor will be arranged, one for ping-pong and pool, and the other will be called a "light exercise room."

Many town departments are cooperating. The Police Department, for instance, will have a course in Fire Arm Safety, which might include target shooting. The Fire Department will provide talks and safety and first aid.

The School Department is in the game. The Superintendent has the assent of the School Committee to participate. Jack Lynch, of the high school staff, is one of those who is cooperating.

The Selectmen, Monday night, gave their assent, and when the Town Manager was asked for $700 to cover the costs, his reply was "Yes, I've got $900."

Minutemen will march Saturday

Two hundred years ago the 17th of June occurred the Battle of Bunker Hill, in which Wilmington soldiers took part, as a part of the regiment of Colonel Ebenezer Bridges of Billerica.

At the time of Concord, Capt. Bridges of Billerica, by an informal arrangement commanded the other companies, and caused the Minutemen to march to Bedford, before the Concord fight.

The events of the siege of Boston, caused the formation of a number of regiments, on a formal basis. One of these was commanded by Colonel Bridges, and contained troops from Reading to Chelmsford, and other towns. Capt. Brooks of the Reading company was promoted to Major, and was third in command of Colonel Bridges' regiment.

Colonel Bridges took his troops to Bred's Hill at midnight, and began digging the "redoubt." The regiment stayed there for the fighting, and although no Wilmington men were injured, a man from Tewksbury was killed.

The Wilmington Minuteman Company has issued a Call to Arms, for the re-enactment of the battle, this Saturday.

The Redcoats are scheduled to attack the hill at 2 p.m. Saturday. All Able Bodied members of the Wilmington Minutemen have been advised to be on the Common before 8 a.m., and to march at 8 a.m. to assist the Charlestown Militia in their fight against the hated Red Coats.

At least a dozen Wilmington men will march.

David had an appointment

Sometimes a newspaper writer finds out more about the event after it appears in the paper - stuff that was hard digging before the paper was published. Such was the case last week, when a young man was nearly drowned in Silver Lake. After the story had appeared there were several dozen telephone calls.

Doren Driscoll, a kindergarten classmate of Mark Ouellette was rescued by Mrs. Ouellette and suffered no difficulties as he was under water for less than two minutes.

The person known as Vern. That's a different matter. There were over a dozen person spresent, and no one could say who he was, other than he had given mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Vern, it turns out, was David O'Rourke of Birchwood Road. When the ambulance arrived and took Mark to Choate Memorial Hospital, David went home.

He had a four o'clock appointment to keep.

Well done

The senior class at Wilmington High School is to be commended for hitting upon a class gift that will, indeed, be a "living memorial."

No bronze plaques, no drinking fountains, gilt-framed portrait of some notable or other traditional class gift for the youngsters from Wilmington.

Nearly every member of the class - not to mention parents, friends and school officials - has contributed to the local blood bank.

And that's not all. The idea seems to be contagious. Latest to fall in line are the 1975 graduates of the Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing in Boston.

This is one campus fad we would hope would catch on in a big way, particularly when so many are in desperate need of the priceless gift of blood. Well done, Wilmington Class of '75.

From the Standard-Times, New Bedford, Mass.

A 23-year-old Tewksbury man was pronounced dead upon arrival by Medical Examiner John Karbowniak at Lowell General Hospital of injuries he suffered when his car crashed in Tyngsboro Friday, June 6, at 11:50 p.m.

Wilmington Soldiers in the Revolution

Two hundred years ago the American Revolution started, and in the course of the long war about 180 soldiers from Wilmington served in the Continental and U.S. Armies. The number is known because the Rev. Mr. Noyes of the Congregational Church said so, in 1880.

But no one knows just who they were. There was no conclusive list. The late Town Clerk, Jimmie Kelley, did a lot of prowling around the gravestones, and had a fair list of names. The Wilmington Minutemen have been doing the same thing.

About 25% of the population of Wilmington served, and it cannot be proven! That's a tremendous figure - generally it is around five or six per cent in any war.

Mrs. Guy M. Rupright of Saugus is a gracious lady who has been in Wilmington on occasion. She is a direct descendant of the Wilmington Jaquith family, which goes back to 1665 or thereabout.

when Sgt. Abram Jaquith built his home on what is now Aldrich Road, near Forest Street.

Mrs. Rupright has done a considerable amount of research, in the archives in the State House, and in the Mass. Historical Society.

She has turned up a muster roll, heretofore unidentified, of men who were from Wilmington, and apparently the ones referred to by the Rev. Mr. Noyes.

Mrs. Rupright is to speak in the Conference Room of the Library at 7 p.m. on Sunday, June 29. She is being sponsored by the Wilmington Historical Commission, and the Bi-Centennial Commission.

At the conclusion of her remarks she is to suggest methods of tracing one's genealogy. She suggests pertinent papers should be brought in, and writing material for taking notes.

The meeting is to be open to the public.

Story hours begin June 30

Eight weeks of story hours for four and five year olds will begin at Wilmington Memorial Library, Monday, June 30.

Conducted once again by Mrs. Arlene Ten Dyke, groups will meet on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday mornings for forty-five minutes of stories, games, songs and crafts. Story hours are designed to acquaint youngsters with their library and the world of stories that is their heritage. Books are chosen by the children at the end of every meeting to take home and have read aloud to them by their families. Five year olds may have library cards in their own names, others use a family card.

Parents should register their children now either by calling the Children's Department at the library (658-2967) or by stopping in at the library. Groups must be limited to twenty in each group.

With the Senior Set

On June 3, 60 seniors enjoyed the Woburn Street School fifth and sixth grade student's version of "Fiddler on the Roof," after which they were served brunch in the school library.

Seniors, pupils and teachers joined in a sing-a-long and everyone had a most enjoyable morning.

New books at Wilmington Library

The Assassination Tapes by George O'Toole attempts to prove that John F. Kennedy was the victim of a conspiracy, and that Lee Oswald was innocent. The crux of the argument is based on the psychological stress evaluator. It works through the medium of the voice, whether live or recorded. Its findings combined with the author's evidence produce a powerful challenge to the Warren Commission's report.

Who Controls the Mass Media? by Martin Seiden shows that the power of the media is a cliché which indicates public misunderstanding. The media's real power is the ability to reach a phenomenal number of people simultaneously. If by power one also means influence, it remains to be proven that man's capacity for directing others has increased because of technology.

The Handicrafts of the Sailor by Steven Banks analyses examples of sailor's crafts which previously received little attention. The book has little to say about scrimshaw because it is already well known, but instead deals with tool decoration, intricate knotwork and carvings.

How to Keep Your Family Fit & Healthy by Binnie Prudden is a step-by-step guide to physical fitness which shows how to set up a practical, intelligent exercise program. The book outlines a unique approach to fitness that brings the family together for mutual fun and health improvement.

The Complete Outdoorsman's Handbook by Jerome Knap is a guide to outdoor living and wilderness survival. The author does not argue that the average outdoorsman should be a wilderness survival expert, but that he must know the basics.

One Hundred Years of Solitude by Gabriel Garcia Marquez tells of the rise and fall, birth and death of a mythical town through the history of an individual family. It is a chronicle of the tragicomedy of being human. In the Buendia family one sees something of all mankind.

The Rainbow by Pearl Buck is a witty and revealing novel of the theatre. It probes beyond the masks behind which actors, directors and others hide from the public, from each other, and from themselves. The story is told by a man addicted to theatregoing who feels the stage is deteriorating and wants to help it.

The Killer Angels by Michael Shaara is a fascinating novel about the three-day battle of Gettysburg and the critical day before the battle. With brilliant and illuminating detail the author works the historical record into a moving account of brothers fighting brothers, but not always hating each other.

VERN HENSEY: Practices in her role as Vera in the upcoming Spotlighters' production of "Mame," to be presented this Friday and Saturday evenings in the Barrows Auditorium at Wilmington High School.

shores of the Mystic, rallied his men in 15 minutes. Then he launched a second attack, with his main force deployed against a stone and rail fence higher up the hill from the Mystic.

Second attack fails

Again the Americans displayed their marksmanship to good advantage, sweeping away the front ranks of the British until the redcoats broke and ran once more.

Although Howe, who remained unscathed, had lost as much as 90 per cent of his men in some of his grenadier and light infantry companies and virtually all of his personal aides, he chose to launch a third attack.

This time his main body of troops would attack breastworks running feet toward the Mystic from the redoubt while Pigot's continued pressure the side of the redoubt facing the burning town on the shores of the Charles River.

The British attacking the redoubt and breastworks weren't met by a solid volley this time, and the American fire soon all but died out as the defenders used up their last ammunition.

Redoubt overrun

British troops quickly overwhelmed the redoubt, pouring over the walls and through a sallyport in massed bayonet attacks. The sallyport "was completely filled with British soldiers," according to Ebenezer Bancroft of Dunstable, part of Bridge's unit.

The Americans fought their way out, defending themselves by throwing rocks and clubbing the redcoats with their firearms. With British troops all but surrounding the redoubt now, the Americans suffered their heaviest losses as they retreated back toward the mainland.

The Connecticut troops by the stone wall further toward the Mystic still had some ammunition and were partly able to cover the retreat of the men fleeing from the redoubt.

More Americans were killed or wounded as they retreated across Charlestown Neck, a narrow strip of land joining Charlestown peninsula with the mainland. The British had warships maintaining steady cannon fire on the narrow strip.

Nearby towns have dead

Among the men from surrounding towns killed in the affray were five from Andover, three from Billerica and one from Dracut.

Bridge's regiment suffered the following men killed: Benjamin Eastey and Asa Pollard of Billerica and John Thessell of Dracut.

Frye's regiment lost Philip Abbot, William Haggitt, Joseph Chandler and Jesse Holt, all of Andover, and Joseph Hibbard of Dracut.

The following men were also killed who weren't assigned to units: Corp. Samuel Hill of Billerica and Samuel Bailey Jr. Tewksbury's Philip Fowler also wasn't serving with an assigned unit when he was killed, although he was part of Bridge's command.

New high school to be discussed

The Citizen's Advisory Council to the Tewksbury School Committee will present a public information meeting concerning the proposed new high school Monday, June 16 at 8 p.m. at the Junior High School Auditorium. The meeting is to give the citizens of Tewksbury an opportunity to meet with School Supt. John Wynn, and Robert Marks of Perry, Dean Partners, the architects selected by the secondary school building committee to draw up the plans for the new High School, as well as representatives of the secondary school building committee and the Tewksbury school committee.

They will explain both plans selected by the secondary school building committee to be offered to the voters, and answer all questions to the public concerning the newly proposed high school. A special town meeting will be held June 23 to vote whether to authorize the preparation of architectural plans and building specifications for the new high school which would be built on former state hospital land behind the North Street school.

All residents are urged to attend.

The Biggest Scouting Event

It was a Camporee, but the Greater Lowell Council of Boy Scouts called it a Jamboree, and then a Jambo.

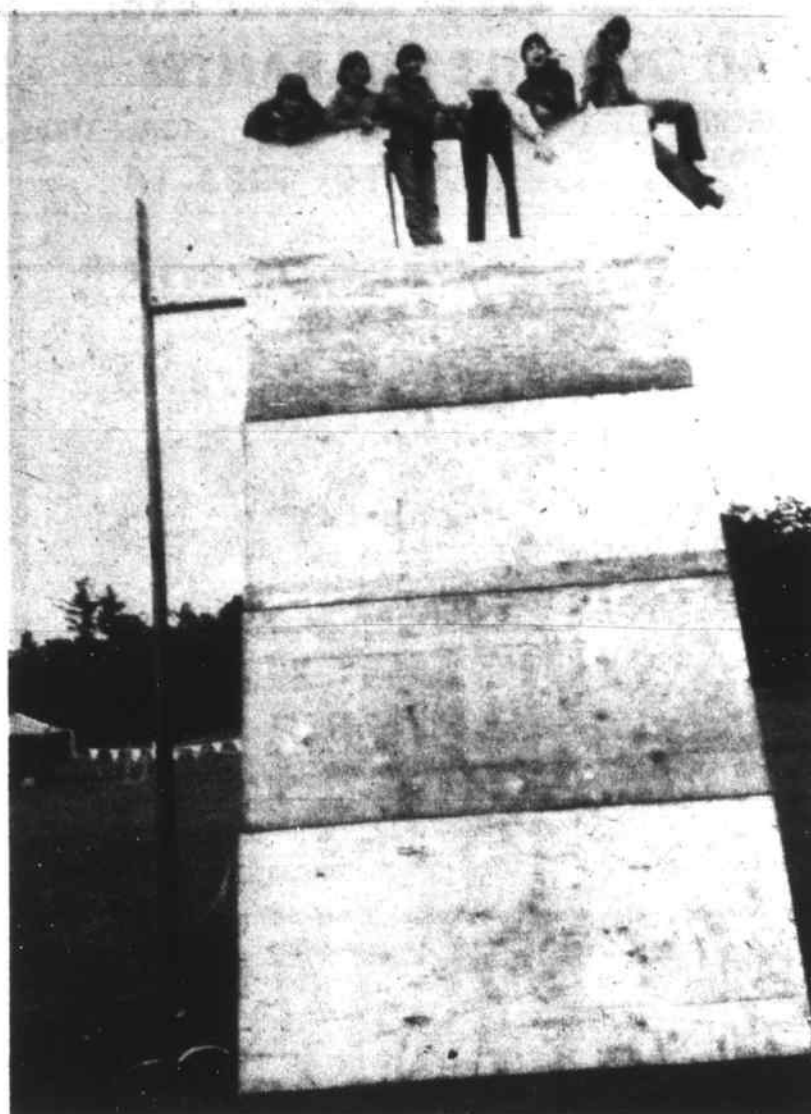

Probably 100 tents were pitched, in a field off Pinnacle Road, in Tewksbury. There were seven units (Scout Troops, etc.) from the Penacook District; 17 from the Wamesit District; and 15 from the Pawtucket District. The Wamesit District includes Tewksbury, Wilmington and Billerica.

A total number of persons registered was 985. And, while the rain of two of the three days of the Jamboree might have really dampened the grass, it didn't dampen Boy Scouts spirits.

KP DUTY: Four Scouts of Troop 136, busy with supper chores, cutting cucumbers and patting hamburgers.

Bits & Pieces

No signature

It doesn't seem to be understood that the Town Crier pays no attention to letters which have no signature, but such is the case. The rule has to be upheld. If a person wishes a letter to appear he or she must sign. The name will be withheld by request.

Scholarships

There were a goodly number of scholarships awarded at the Wilmington High School graduation, Sunday, for which many persons must be pleased. For some organizations it might be easy, but for some to make those presentations means a lot of work. The Wilmington Athletic Boosters, to name one, for instance, gave four substantial scholarships, and raised all the money for that purpose.

The best of course was to John Kaminski, an ROTC scholarship. He is going to use the money to attend Notre Dame, and study chemical engineering. Everybody is glad.

Pests on Morse Ave.

Residents of Morse Ave., and a portion of Woburn Street in Wilmington have been annoyed for the past few weeks by a group of youngsters ranging in age from four to nine years. Mail boxes have been damaged, lawns covered with stones which caused expensive damage to onw lawn mower and flowers have been picked and pulled up by the roots.

Homeowners in the area are hoping that if any neighborhood children present a gift bouquet, parents will check on where they obtained it. The situation is not, at this point considered serious, but is to say the least, trying.

Otherwise occupied

Another group of youngsters, hundreds strong and slightly older spent last weeking at a Council-wide Boy Scout Jamboree in Tewksbury with their fellow Boy Scouts from all over the Greater Lowell area.

Well over 500 boys and their leaders formed an interesting and colorful spectacle for even the most casual observer. Tents and tee-pees covered nearly a quarter mile. Obstacle courses were being conquered, mountain climbers were pursuing their goals and various sports events were taking place. Noone was in competition, it was intended to be, and was just a congenial weekend of comradeship.

Harold Dow of Tewksbury, coordinator of the event said that all but one of Tewksbury Boy Scout Troops were represented and that all of Wilmington's were on hand.

B.A. for Paul Pintrich

In addition to this agreement, Compugraphic has been offered a $7,000,000 leasing line of credit which will allow the company to sell part of its future leasing portfolio to Chase Manhattan Leasing Co.

Visitor from Florida

approximately 18 years ago, William Nolan moved to Miami from his home on Salem Rd., at the Wilmington-Tewksbury line where he had lived for over thirty years.

For the next several weeks Mr. Nolan will be visiting his son, and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nolan of Jones Ave., Wilmington.

Claire Dickinson

Mrs. Claire Dickinson of Deming Way, Wilmington is a patient at Choate Memorial Hospital where she has been confined for approximately three weeks.

Four Franks

The recent arrival of a baby boy has brought to four the number of Frank Edmund Darlings living at what has long been known as the Eames Street corner in Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Darling, Sr. moved into their Eames Street home in June, 1930. On October 15, 1931 their son, Frank E. Darling, Jr. was born. Frank Junior later married Helen Peitzsch and on February 16, 1953, their son, Frank E. Darling, III made his debut. On June 3, 1975, Frank, III was presented with a son who was named - of course!! Frank E. Darling IV. All four are still living on Eames Street.

The three older Franks are associates of Frank's Enterprises, Inc. (Frank's Amoco Station) at Eames and Main streets.

Graduate from Burdett

Sharon Ward of Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, a graduate of WHS has successfully completed the Cooperative Honors Program at Burdett School in Boston. She is currently employed in Boston as a secretary with Charles T. Main Co.

Judy Strand of Middlesex Ave., also a graduate of WHS has completed the six-month Executive Secretarial course at Burdett School and is employed as a secretary in the Sales Dept. of Personal Care Division with Gillette Company.

Are there more?

At least four more donations by Wilmington to the recent Channel 2 Auction have been reported. Wilmington Pet Shop made a generous donation as did the Firestone Store and Converse Rubber.

John and Dwyna Arvanitis of 68 Middlesex offered offered their camp ground in Epsom, N.H. and it brought more than the usual week's rental out of intensive care.

Mrs. Betty Bernard of Oakridge Circle, Wilmington has left the intensive care ward at Choate Memorial Hospital and is recuperating nicely in an "ordinary" room, following surgery.

Wet flea markets

Many flea markets and yard sales were rained on last Saturday, but the Wilmington Sons of Italy had already spent a successful day at their flea market, at Wilmington Plaza, before "the rains came."

Louise is home!!!

Following many weeks of hospitalization, Louise Thomas has returned to her Morse Ave., Wilmington home. She visited the Senior Drop-in-Center last Tuesday and received a most enthusiastic welcome from her colleagues.

Lt. Blonigen

An Associate Degree in Fire Science was recently awarded to Lt. Silverius Blonigen of Wilmington's Fire Department. The lieutenant, a resident of Crescent Ave. for the past 12 years has been a firefighter in Wilmington for the past eight, and was appointed Director of Civil Defense in 1972. He intends to continue his studies in pursuit of his Bachelor's degree.

Four other members of the department are currently engaged in taking the course from which Lt. Blonigen has just graduated: Deputy Chief Daniel Wandell and firefighters Al Muise, Ed Corcoran and John Brown.

Last March, a dog stranded in open water in the middle of Silver Lake was successfully rescued when Firefighters Brown and Corcoran, under the guidance of Lt. Blonigen chopped through solid ice to reach the terrified animal. Anyone who witnessed that event would have to be convinced that Wilmington firefighters take all phases of their work seriously.

Athletic director

Tom MacFeeley of Burnap St., Wilmington, Scout Master of Troop 136, has been appointed director of the athletic program at Boy Scout Camp Wah-tut-pca in New Hampshire for the 1975 summer season.

Birthdays

On June 1, Carrie Belle Kincaid of Woburn St., Wilmington will observe her 86th birthday; on June 21, Dennis Ford of Westdale Ave., will have made it around again; and on June 11, Jeff Lyman of Meadow Lane became a teenager and Billy Hudson, formerly of Wilmington, now stationed at Newport, R.I. turned another page, also on June 11.

65 graduates

In June of 1951, 65 seniors graduated from Wilmington High School.

1551 claims status

According to one who should know, Wilmington has 1,551 citizens who joyously admit to being seniors and a sizeable additional number who refuse to claim the status.

During May, over fifty per cent of that 1,551 "dropped in" at the center at Wilmington Plaza. According to Nina Reynolds, director of the center, it is not unusual during the winter months for over one thousand people to avail themselves of the services offered there.

Over the last few months, visitors have signed the guest book from Billerica, Canada, Bedford, California, Delaware, etc., etc., etc. It is not necessary to be a senior citizen to take part in activities at the center, visitors are always welcome.

Arts and crafts at public library

The creative artwork of some 90 youngsters who recently completed the Wilmington Recreation Department's "Spring into Arts and Crafts" program will be on display during the week of June 16 at the Wilmington Memorial Library.

Plaster jewelry, face costumes, candles, macrame holders and terrariums are some of the works that the first, second and third graders created under the supervision of Wilmington's Judy Boeri, a graduate of Massachusetts College of Art.

Foresight vs. ticks

The outbreak of ticks, this summer, is expected to coincide with the Bicentennial celebration, which will probably bring thousands of visitors to Massachusetts.

Under the circumstances effective preventive measures are needed, not only to reassure the visitors, but to lessen the likelihood of demands for useless but damaging pesticide programs.

Because of the possibility of overreaction under circumstances of panic, the Massachusetts Audubon Society has recommended that an effective pesticide program be prepared, to keep apart ticks and visitors, as well as residents. A study should be made to determine the most effective method of curbing outdoor ticks.

The wholly unacceptable program says the Audubon Society would be a senseless and damaging aerial spray against ticks. Aerial spraying would be little more than a politically palatable activity.

The commonly used pesticides have minimal effect upon ticks, which are not insects, but an ancient relative of spiders and crabs.

The broadcasting of hard pesticides would damage many more things than the ticks. It would be a repetition of the old charade of leaving people unprotected while pretending to do something for them.

There are two different ticks in Massachusetts. The outdoor tick, known as the American dog tick is a species which seems headed for a population explosion. The other tick is the indoor tick, known as the brown dog or kennel tick. Its tropical nature has prevented its spread in Massachusetts.

The American dog tick is almost without natural controls other than the weather, according to Dr. William McEnroe of the Experimental Station at Waltham. It apparently has no diseases, parasites nor predators to limit its numbers.

The creature lives through the winter as an adult or nymph, seeking shelter in the duff on forest floors, or tall grass areas. There are two broods, one (the smaller) emerging in May. The larger brood emerges in June and lasts through July.

In the early stages of life the American dog ticks feeds on the blood of small warm blooded animals. Field mice are preferred. Adult ticks parasitize larger animals, such as dogs.

Finding a host animal to parasitize is not a random operation as it might appear. Ticks have an acute sensitivity toward carbon dioxide and will crawl toward the source of the gas, which is, of course, emitted from human and other mammalian lungs.

Presence of carbon dioxide indicates a possible host, and the combination of many persons, and many cars in a parking lot makes the area favored hunting territory for the ticks.

A tick that has arrived at an area that seems favorable will climb up the stem of taller grasses and "quest." A questing tick is prepared to seize any warm blooded animal that brushes against its grass porch.

Even after a tick boards a person the potential host has a period of grace. It devotes the first day to exploring for choice sites of attachment. It then devotes much of the second day to anchoring at a site and injecting fluid which etches access to a blood vessel.

A thorough search of the body each night enables the potential host to disable the creature as easily. Children seem less sensitive to the presence of ticks on the body, and should be searched thoroughly. Ticks seem to prefer hairy spots, and the hairline of the head should receive special attention.

The best method of removing an embedded tick consists of grasping it between the thumb and forefinger and pulling. Most of the folklore methods, including burning them with cigarettes, do not work.

Only the female ticks makes a firm attachment to the host. She inserts a pair of hooks into the skin. The male tick spends his time roving over the host in search of females.

A Wilmington Public Health Official

The brown dog tick

Several kinds of ticks may be found in your yard and in other open spaces. Only one kind of tick - the brown dog tick frequently infests homes in the United States. This tick is a parasite of dogs. It does not breed in the woods or in open country.

If there are ticks in your home, they probably are brown dog ticks that entered on your dog.

After feeding on the dog, brown dog ticks hide in places such as cracks and crevices, under carpets and rugs, upholstered furniture, and behind baseboards. There the female lays her eggs; and each stage of each successive generation of ticks eventually finds the dog, feeds on his blood, and drops off to seek hiding places in the home and keep the cycle going.

Brown dog ticks rarely bite humans; they do not carry human diseases. However, their presence in the home is annoying, and they can make your dog's life very uncomfortable.

Treatment should start with the dog. Have him dipped in a bath containing a suitable insecticide - usually malathion. This task may be assigned to a veterinarian.

If you choose to do it at home, buy an emulsifiable concentrate containing 50 per cent of malathion. Mix one tablespoon of the concentrate with each gallon of water. Dip the dog in the mixture.

Do not include his head, but sponge his ears with the mixture if necessary. For a large dog, make up the mixture in a bucket and pour it slowly over the dog's back; make sure it soaks through the hair to the skin.

The next procedure is to get rid of new broods of ticks that are developing in the home. Use a household insecticide containing malathion or diazinon. Spray or paint it on cracks in the floor, around baseboards and window casings, on places where the dog habitually sleeps, and on other places where ticks may be hiding. Repeat after two or three months. A malathion spray may be applied to rugs, carpets, or upholstered furniture. Be sure the container label states that it will not stain.

Mite A: The Mite A's lost a hard-fought game 4-3 to a tough South Boston II team on Saturday. This dropped their spring record to three wins and four losses.

Southie broke on top with a single first period goal and remained ahead throughout. Wilmington goals were scored by Billy Woods and David Fuller, unassisted and David Buzzell assisted by Robbie Walden.

Exceptionally heavy pressure applied by Peter Oikle, Billy Craig and Ken Richter late in the third period came very close to tying the score.

In Wednesday action against South Boston I, the goalie duo of Brian Surrette and Dante DeMarco and excellent defensive work by Ralph Newhouse, Donnie Constantino and Danny Kane held the opposition to one goal while Wilmington offense led by hat tricks from Danny Pallizotti and David Fuller was overpowering.

Other scorers in the nine goal Wilmington attack were Scott Poole, David Richards and Robbie Walden. The strong play making and back checking of Robby Palmer and Jay McFadden were the keys to an overall outstanding effort.

Squirt A: The Squirt A's, after a see-saw first period, finally got into gear and dumped Medford 7-3. Medford opened the scoring at 3:09 catching the A's asleep. Wilmington bounced back with three consecutive goals at 6:57, Robson from Allard; 8:12, Harding unassisted and 9:25, Kevin Smith from Bob Curran. Medford came back to tie the score with goals at 9:34 and 11:41 again catching the A's napping.

Bob Curran scored the only second period goal at 9:25 on a penalty shot after a Medford defenseman had fallen on the puck in the goal crease. Bob's shot went into the top corner of the net as he pulled the goalie out and shot over his glove hand.

The A's finally got it together with three third period goals, O'Reilly from Newhouse, Brady and Kevin Smith both unassisted. Wilmington out shot Medford 33-13 as the play was mostly in Medford's end of the arena. It was nearly a defensemen's scoring day as Palmer, Cullivan and Jim Smith had very near misses.

Squirt A: The Squirt A's toppled the league's new entry, Lowell by the score of 8-2. The game was never really in doubt as Wilmington opened up a three-goal lead before Lowell got on the board. Ed Harding, John LaLiberte and Paul Brady all tallied with assists going to Dan Allard (two), John Robson, Jerry O'Reilly and Ed Harding.

Following Lowell's score Jim Newhouse continued the scoring on a tip in from Dan Allard and Paul Brady. Bob Curran scored on a neat pass from Ray Durling; Jim Smith, assisted by Jim Newhouse got a deflected goal from the right point and Ed Harding from Jeff Brown and Lance Sullivan made the score 7-1. Lowell got their second goal before Lance Sullivan finished off the scoring with the defense's second goal of the game.

The A's showed a strong defensive effort, limiting the opposition to only eight shots on goal. Strong body checking and good heads-up hockey by all six defensemen, Palmer, Cullinan, Olsen, Allard, Smith and Sullivan was a real asset as they continually turned the puck over to the forwards.

Pee Wee A: The A's had to come back from a 3-1 deficit to tie South Boston 3-3 on Sunday. Southie jumped out to a 1-0 lead after only one minute of the first period. The game was tied at 2:25 of the first period on a power play as David Kidd, after a feed from Bob Lowney fired a slap shot from the blue line that deflected in off the goalie's stick. Southie scored again making it 2-1.

southie scored at 6:40 of period two making it 3-1. That set the stage for Sean O'Donoghue who scored three minutes later assisted by Kevin McDonald. It was 3-2 Southie as period three started. Once again Sean came through 11 seconds into the period as he scored his second of the day assisted by Kevin McDonald. Sean just did miss a hat trick with a quick backhand a short time later.

The next game will be played against Burlington Carpet at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 15.

Pee Wee B's (5-1-1): Frank Newark's Wildcats scratched the undefeated Reading Rockets off their list. The Rockets sponsored by Colella Trucking Co. took off fast with a three goal lead.

Chuckie McNeil who knows trucking from his dad led the way by loading one single handed. Phil Pallozzitti moved one over to Bobby Williams who drove it in with a backhand. Georgie Boudreau flipped one to Frankie Newark who tied the score.

Jolted by this the Rockets fired their second stage for two more quick goals. Jeff Stouffer passed one to McNeil who loaded in another. Bobby Magliozzi shot to Stouffer who tied the score again. McNeil then completed his hat trick with assist from Boudreau.

Before closing the doors, driver Newark loaded another from dispatcher McNeil and shipper Boudreau, leaving Reading stunned 7-5.

Bantam A: By virtue of a hard fought 6-1 win over a scrappy Beverly Farms Club, Wilmington moved into a first place tie. Wilmington scored midway through the first period. Dennis Foley dug out the puck from behind the net and passed to Velozzo on the left point who wasted little time with a quick slap shot into the upper left corner.

Early in the second period Bill McCann carried behind the net drawing both defensemen with him and fed unmolested Foley who put it between the goal tender's pads. A minute later Rich Robinson scored on a pretty pass from Squeakie Greenberg.

In the third period Bill McCann scored after excellent passing in the Beverly zone from Dana Kidd and Foley. Midway through the period, greenberg scored on Robinson's rebound with the other assist to Tim McCann. Beverly Farms scored on a power play late in the period, but this was answered with a quick score from Tim McCann less than a minute later with assists to Robinson and Greenberg.

Once again, the defensemen played an exceptional game as did Ballou and Iozza in the Wilmington goal. Next Saturday, opposition will be furnished by a strong Cambridge team at 5:30 p.m.

Tewksbury man killed

Battle rages in Charlestown

News reached Tewksbury and Wilmington today, June 18, 1775, that gunfire reportedly heard in Wilmington yesterday was the result of the first major line battle between American and British troops.

Although the redcoats had driven the Americans from the battlefield in Charlestown by nightfall, the victory apparently went to the British solely because the Americans ran out of ammunition.

Heavy casualties were reported on both sides, but the British lost almost 50 per cent of their attacking force as opposed to much smaller losses suffered by the Americans.

Corp. Philip Fowler, 17, of Tewksbury, husband of Esther Fowler, is reportedly missing and presumed dead in the clash, which also apparently claimed the life of Dr. Joseph Warren, president of the Provincial Congress.

Local men fight

Fowler was among 210 men from in Col. Ebenezer Bridge's Regiment who fought in the affray. Bridge's unit includes men from Tewksbury, Wilmington and many surrounding towns, but no one from Tewksbury or Wilmington was reported killed except Fowler.

Three of Bridge's companies remained in Cambridge to guard the headquarters there.

The names of the wounded haven't been released yet, but Bridge, a Billerica resident, is known to have suffered severe wounds in the battle and his second in command, Lt. Col. Moses Parker was wounded and believed captured.

Maj. General Artemus Ward, commander of the American army in the area, reports 115 of his men were killed, 305 wounded and 30 captured. Most of the captured soldiers were seriously wounded, and few are expected to survive.

Intelligence sources indicate the British Military Governor Thomas Gage, lost more than 200 killed and 800 wounded from among the 2300 British troops involved in the battle. Among them were 27 officers killed and 63 wounded, a major loss in command strength.

Charlestown burned

During the engagement, British cannon firing red-hot shot set Charlestown afire with the aid of British troops, destroying all of the town's 400 homes and public buildings. Residents had evacuated the town after the Lexington-Concord battle though, fearing British occupation.

Reportedly the Americans learned several days ago that Gage intended to occupy Charlestown and Dorchester Heights today. From those high points on the mainland he planned to attack the American army in Cambridge and destroy it.

The American command apparently decided to goad the British into a battle in Charlestown in an attempt to bleed them enough to discourage further British movements outside Boston or at least to concentrate the British move against the mainland in one place.

American troops initially numbering 860 men of Col. Bridge's, Col. James Frye's and Col. William Prescott's Massachusetts regiments, aided by 200 Connecticut troops were ordered to Charlestown on the night of June 16, with Prescott in command in the field.

Fortify heights

The Americans were to build fortifications on Bunker Hill and await a British attack. Because the American troops were only issued a day's provisions and little water, apparently the American command planned to abandon Charlestown after the fight, whoever won, as Charlestown can be bombarded on three sides by warships.

Using blackened lanterns to keep their movements hidden from the British, the Americans arrived in Charlestown in the early morning of June 17.

After conferring, the officers in command decided that instead of fortifying Bunker Hill they would form their defense lines further toward Boston on heights sometimes called part of Bunker Hill but known by most Charlestown residents as Breed's Hill.

They immediately began erecting an earthen redoubt with 136 foot long sides near the back of the plateau at the top of those heights.

British don't act

Although intelligence reports indicate the British heard the Americans building fortifications shortly after the work began, they left them unharmed and unimpeded for hours.

The first British response came when the 20 gun frigate HMS Lively opened fire on the redoubt at 4 a.m. Soon three other ships of the royal navy, and two floating batteries joined the barrage with 54 more guns, aided by a battery of mammoth 24-pound guns on Copp's Hill in Boston's North End.

Aside from aiding in setting Charlestown afire about 1 p.m., the artillery fire caused few casualties, although some of the green American troops, almost all of them unused to being under attack by big guns, reportedly deserted.

Amazingly, General Gage delayed a land attack on the American lines until after 3 p.m. By then the redoubt was completed and lesser fortifications stretched all the way from the top of the hill to the shores of the Mystic River.

Americans reinforced

In addition, elements of five Massachusetts and one New Hampshire regiment, aided by more Connecticut troops and individual soldiers coming out of the field alone had arrived to reinforce what was left of the three regiments originally deployed there. Even more were to arrive later.

Among the individuals was Warren. Prescott offered to turn over command of the American forces in Charlestown to Warren, who only days before had been commissioned as a major general in the army. Warren, however, chose to fight as a private because he hadn't received his official papers naming him as an army officer yet.

Col. Bridge's troops were among the Americans who manned the redoubt and breastworks that made up the main fortifications.

Major General William Howe, who commanded the assault, was seen personally at the head of the main attacking force of more than 1000 men. His main goal was to sweep along the banks of the Mystic River and come around and attack the redoubt and associated defenses from behind, intelligence reports indicate.

Uses best troops

Howe's front ranks included most of the grenadier and light infantry companies under his command. Such units include the strongest and best trained men drawn from each British regiment.

To Howe's left, his second-in-command, General Robert Pigot, lead the remaining British troops in a move against the redoubt and a largely undefended area leading from it to the burning town on the shores of the Charles River.

American officers ordered their men to hold their fire until the British were as little as 30 yards away. When the redcoats reached that point, the American line exploded in a blast of fire that all but wiped out the front ranks of the attacking British troops. The British ran.

Howe, who suffered his heaviest losses facing a stone wall manned by New Hampshire men on the

Letter

To the Taxpayers
of Wilmington:

We would like to issue a personal report on the "excellent" job your appointed and elected officials are doing in the speculating and spending of the taxpayers' money.

The present order of controversy surrounds the collection of garbage in the town of Wilmington. Amazing as it may seem, four out of every ten residents are not aware of this service. You are paying for it. You may as well utilize it.

Which brings us to our next order of business. Naturally, everyone wants the best for their money. In other words, concerning your garbage contract, you would like the best possible service for the cheapest possible price. Why then do our appointed and elected officials choose a contractor, allow no advertised public bid, and the biggest outrage of all, they refuse to hear opposition in regard to this subject. We think the taxpayers of Wilmington should know exactly what is going on and decide for themselves.

Our present contractor of record is Mastromarino Bros. of N.H., in the amount of $53,000.00 per year. They have had our contract for approximately 15 years. They have done an excellent job in Wilmington and carry outstanding references from other towns who have utilized their services.

Times being what they are, money is tight and town spending must be cautious and well utilized. Therefore the good officials of the Town of Wilmington did their duty and solicited bids. However, I must admit, they are unique in their methods. Instead of publishing a notice of public bid, they simply called a few known contractors and came up with a more pleasing figure of $35,000.00 per year from John Catoni of Peabody, Mass., a well established man in this business, good references and a cheaper price. Unfortunately, Mr. Catoni has never collected garbage in the Town of Wilmington before, so the first few months of the contract may be difficult. You'll simply have to call the Board of Health and complain that your garbage was not picked up. They will then assure you that you will not be missed again. A slight inconvenience. Not to mention, Mr. Catoni, through no fault of his own, is not a resident of Wilmington and he and his help will be coming in from out of town. We certainly hope the winter storms will not hamper his performance. Then again, Mr. Catoni will be bonded and if he forfeits that bond the Town will simply find another contractor to take his place. Your collection will only be detained for a short time while the Town does more soliciting.

so here we have two contractors. Just for fun - let's throw in a third. Cape Disposal, owned and operated by Carl Hussey of Wilmington. As coincidence would have it, Mr. Hussey was in the employ of Mastromarino Brothers for ten years in the Town of Wilmington, may I add doing the entire town.

However, there comes a time when some people decide to strike out on their own and go into business for themselves. Mr. Hussey did. Presently, he subcontracts the Town of Billerica and personally contracts the Town of Concord. He possesses the same equipment, references and qualifications as Mastromarino Bros. and Mr. Catoni, not to mention he is a resident and employs three other town residents.

Now, Mr. Hussey, hearing of this discrepancy, submitted a bid of $29,900.00 for one year. Cheapest yet, qualifications just as good. Why, one would think the Town and taxpayers would be elated!! Why then was Mr. Hussey refused a hearing before the Board of Health and the Board of Selectmen? Evidently, the Town of Wilmington wishes to spend $5,100.00 needlessly.

I wonder how many other town contracts are being handled this way? With taxes going up, it might be worth questioning.

Carbon monoxide can easily leak into a car, even when you're travelling at speeds of fifty or fifty-five miles per hour.

Wind pressure often forces the gas right into the car, through leaks in the engine compartment. On older cars it is wise from time to time to lift the mats on the floors and check for holes.

Also check for holes in the firewall. Whenever you suspect difficulties in your exhaust system, have them fixed immediately.

Whatever your automotive problems, bring them to the experts at WILMINGTON FORD, 275 Main St., Rt. 38, Wilmington, 658-6800 for solutions. FIVE YEARS IN A ROW? 1975 is the year of the garden, but it appears that nobody has successfully challenged Paul Morrice as the holder of the Town Crier's mythological Golden Pea Spoon. Paul has claimed the spoon three times previous, and his wife has also won it. One day, Paul says, he will pick his peas before June first, but this year he had to wait until the ninth.

The workshop will be held at 10 a.m. in the library conference room.

Trophies named for From Front Page

The Mary Lanni Trophy, newly established in honor of a lady who did much for the Community Fund was awarded to the Fr. Edmund W. Croke Council, 4982, K of C, Grand Knight James Hachey, with Deputy Grand Knight Al O'Connor standing in for Hachey.

The Mary Lanni Trophy is awarded to the most effective organization, adult, for the Wilmington Community Fund fund drive. Ten walkers from the K of C brought in $300, the second year in which that organization came in first. The K of C, it must be remarked, had quite a battle for the honor from the local Kiwanians.

Thw Wavie Drew Trophy, also newly established, is for the oldest walker. It was given to Frank M. Tuttle of Carson Avenue, Scoutmaster and Naturealist. Mr. Tuttle walked the distance for Camp Forty Acres.

The adult bringing in the most money was Selectman George Boylen of Ledgewood Road. Boylen earned $152.15 for the Community Fund.

The most effective school was the Swain School, which won the trophy for schools the second year in a row. One more year and the Swain School will retire the trophy. Representing the school were Miss Moore Hampson and Mr. Mederios.

The Girl Scouts won the most effective youth organization trophy. 47 Girl Scouts brought in $435.46. It is their second year to win the trophy. They had close competition this year from the Crusaders and the Boy Scouts.

The youth bringing in the most money this year was George W. Hooper Jr. It was also his second year to win a trophy. George walked for the Swain School.

The youngest walker to complete the distance (12 miles) was Beverly Dalton, of 48 Grove Avenue. Beverly is five. She walked for her kindergarten, and for the Girl Scouts. There were 552 walkers for the Community Fund this year, and they realized, for the fund, the sum of $7,496.44.

Higginbotham estate cut in two

Plans dividing the former Higginbotham estate on Chestnut Street into two parts were signed, Tuesday evening by the Wilmington Planning Board. Herbert Higginbotham, a World War I soldier, was one of the founders of the Nee-Ellsworth Post 2458, VFW.

The Higginbotham estate had a stone garage, which in later years was converted into a home, after it had passed into hands other than the Higginbotham family. The present owners are Charles Gullage of 14 Chestnut Street, and Paul D. Brooks of 14A Chestnut Street. The two men are brothers-in-law, according to the Planning Board.

An appeal was made on April 30 to the Board of Appeals, and a favorable decision was given. Tuesday night the plans were signed, each lot having less frontage than is ordinarily required in the Wilmington Building By-Law.

You Gotta See It to Believe It!

Seven hundred and seventeen dogs were immunized against rabies and other doggy afflictions last Saturday, in the Board of Health Clinic at the Town Garage. They caused one of the biggest car jams on record in Wilmington.

"Ya Gotta See it, to Believe It!" was what Patrolman Arthur Lynch Jr., muttered, when he arrived at the Brown's Crossing Pumping Station.

There was a jam of cars, from just north of Salem Street to just south of Route 125. Cars were parked on both sides of the road, leaving just one lane - and cars were trying to go in both directions on that lane.

Lynch got the Highway Department to put up a One Way - No Entrance sign at Route 125. He warned the Fire Department that they would never get through on Andover Street. Then he waited.

Half an hour later, enough cars had left so that the road could be cleared.

Wilmington had Bunker Hill Elm

Wilmington had an elm tree formed from a switch planted in the ground 200 years ago on Bunker Hill Day on the present site of the Anderson farm on Park Street. The tree was cut down early in this century.

Supposedly a member of the Gowing family that owned the farm for many years was using the switch to drive cattle on the day of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

At some point he noticed the switch still had roots, and planted it into the ground. The switch grew to become an enormous elm tree, according to a story told by older residents.

Third section approved for Lucaya Estates

Section three of Lucaya Estates, a real estate development northerly of Park Street, was approved by the Wilmington Planning Board, Tuesday night. The Planning Board set a bond of $55,000 to guarantee street and other utility construction.

The bond was established by Bob Higgins, Town Engineer, who told the Planning Board that the project had an "excellent developer, and an excellent contractor," and that "a good job is being done."

All senior portraits appearing in this issue of the Town Crier for Wilmington High School and Austin Prep were photographed by Jamesway Studio of Wilmington.
